

VASSILIS FILIAS
SOCIOLOGY OF CIVILIZATION

FIRST VOLUME

Basic Delimitations and Directions

CONTENTS

FIRST PART

Questions of theory and praxis	17-204
Unit A.: The consideration of civilization from the social sciences	17-101
I. The ethnological consideration	24-43
II. The pure anthropological approaches	44-67
III. The sociological consideration	68-101
Unit B.: Main conceptual axes	103-128
Unit C.: The crossed fields of theory and practice in social research	129-155
I. The Weberian frame of mind	133-135
II. The application of typological method in sociological research	136-138
III. The objectivism as a method- second approach	139-142
IV. The subjectivism as a method	143-146
V. Freedom and necessity. The praxeological theory of Marx	147-155
Unit D.: Bourdieu's theory of praxis	157-180
Unit E.: Henri Lefebvre and the criticism of everyday life	181-204

SECOND PART

Prolegomena to the formation of Sociology of Civilization	205-359
Unit F.: History and Civilization	205-256
I. The point of view of the philosophy of History and the History as science. The crossed fields	211-256
II. History – Theory – Sociology of Art and Civilization: The perplexity of the fields	257-359
Unit G.: General consideration of the involvement of the economic factor in civilization	361-433
I. Eastern despotic centralism	368-377
II. Ancient Greece	378-391
III. Westeuropean Middle ages	392-409
IV. The Renaissance	410-433
Unit H.: Preliminary remarks on the relation between religion and civilization	435-459
Unit I.: The institutional component of the civilization	461-475
Bibliography	477-481